A FRESH SUPPLY OF

HAMILTON'S ELIXIR,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, sore throats and approaching consumptions. Thousands are too well acquainted with the nature and effects of impirical medicines daily offered for the cure of the above complaints-----dear bought experience has taught that oily and heating medicines, joined with strong opiates(or sleepy drugs) repeated doses of which flatter and deceive the patient for the present, by procuring momentary ease; experience, I say, has taught thousands that the common opiates and balsamics, as they are called, finally aggravate every disorder of the breast and lungs, in the most distressing symptoms, that they load the stomach and impair the digestion, inflame the whole system, increase the difficulty of breathing, and excite fever. But the qualities of this valuable discovery are evinced by perfectly opposite effects. A single trial will prove that it restores the determination of the fluids to the surface of the body, and brings on the common healthful perspiration; that it dislodges and evacuates the tough, viscid phlegm or mucus, strengthens the weakened vessels of the lungs, sheathes the acrimonious humor which irritates them, and finally discharges it. Thus striking at the root of the disorder, the symptoms are of course effectually and permanently conquered, the reverse of common medicine which weakens the constitution and gives strength to the disorder, for the sake of moderating for the present some of its painful effects.

To Parents who have Children afflicted with the Whooping Cough.

This discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which children are liable, the Elixir is so perfectly agreeable and the doses so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

SELECTED CASES.

Philadelphia, Aug. 19, 1806.

Being desirous to make public, for the good of others, the excellent quality of Hamilton's Elixir, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from it; which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had to rise up in my bed with all the horrors of immediate suffocation—add to these, a constant pain in my breast, and cough, a great loss of strength and flesh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption.—The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, but without giving me any relief. Another physician who knew me, and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamilton's elixir a trial, saying he had used it in his practice, and always found it to do much good. A bottle was procured from Mr. Birch's, and found relief before I had taken half of it. I continued to use it,and was soon strong enough to attend to business. On taking cold, some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the Elixir. GEO. BENNER, jun.

Mrs. H. Lee, New-York.

Mr. Charles Myers, Hamstead-Hill, near Baltimore, had been a long time dangerously indisposed, and was reduced to the lowest state of weakness, insomuch that his recovery appeared extremely doubtful. His complaints, which seemed to be affections of the breast and lungs, and general debility occasioned thereby, yielded little, but rather progressed, under the treatment of several eminent physicians; when by the use of Hamilton's Elixir, his distressing cough was immediately alleviated, and every other symptom rapidly subdued. Four or five bottles entirely removed his complaints, and restored him to an excellent state of health and strength, which he has for upwards of a year past enjoyed without interruption.

HAMILTON'S

WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES,

Which, there is reason to believe, have, within NINE YEARS past, cured upwards of Two Hundred Thousand persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

LETTER

From the Rev. J. Molther, Minister of the Moravian Church in Yorktown.

YORKTOWN, Jan. 4, 1802.

Dear Sir,—Doctor Hamilton's Lozenges having been recommended to me as a very adequate means for the cure of children afflicted with worms, I procured a box for the use of my family, to try whether, by means of this medicine, I might be enabled to gain a point, which to accomplish, different other means had proved abortive. My eldest boy had a very sickly appearance, was very restless at night, grew leaner from time to time, in short, he seemed to be in a precarious state of health, which would yield to none of the medicines administered, until I gave him two doses of the Lozenges, agreeable to the directions, which carried off a substance, to all appearance mere mucus, but upon close inspection quite replete with very small living animals, not one of that sort of worms which usually afflict children, came from him. Since that period he grew remarkably better in health, and, though lean, has got a fresh and lively complexion. Upon different occasions I have used this medicine as a purging substitute, and found it to answer exceedingly well, without bringing on a belly-ache, or any of those disagreeable sensations, so often occasioned by purging medicines. Upon the whole, I judge this medicine to be, besides its main object, one of the most salutary means for restoring lost appetite, and promoting a state of digestion, by carrying off that bilious substance, which engenders so much indisposition both among children and adults. I am sir, your most obedient servant, JOHN MOLTHER.

TUESDAY, April 5, 1808.

On Tuesday night last, the house of Ennion Williams, Esq. in Beaver county, was consumed by fire. There is no doubt but that it was set fire to by some of those persons who were concerned in the murder of James Hamilton, in September last, as threats have been made, since that time, that injury should be done to Mr. Williams.

We are informed, that a letter was found near the house, declaring, that if Williams was in their power they would put him to death. Mr. Williams has resided for some time at Brownsville, on the Monongahela.

From the National Intelligencer, March 23.

Our readers will perceive by our congressional journal, that a MESSAGE was yesterday received from the President. It was delivered to each house about a quarter of an hour after eleven. The doors both of the Senate and House, were immediately closed, and continued closed until past three o'clock, when an adjournment took place.

A large mass of documents accompany the Message, the greater part imparted without confidence, and the residue, only so far confidential, we believe, as relates to opinions expressed by or entertained of some public characters, which it has not heretofore been usual to publish. The whole field of our foreign relations, so far as they bear upon existing differences, is disclosed; including the entire correspondence relative to the Chesapeake between Mr. Monroe and the British government, and between Mr. Madison and Mr. Rose; the correspondence on our general relations with England, and consequently that which gave rise to the treaty signed by our ministers and returned by the President; and the correspondence with the other belligerent powers. The documents are so very voluminous that their reading will consume several days, when all, except those parts which we have stated to be confidential, will, it is presumed, be ordered to be printed. We shall seize the earliest opportunity of presenting them to the public.

Mr. Rose on Monday last took leave of the President, and yesterday left this city for Alexandria, whence he proceeds to Norfolk, where he means to take immediate passage for England in the Statira.

Mr. Foster, secretary of legation, and the Messrs. Cassimajors, are to accompany him. Mr. Mansfield remains for some time in this country, not in the character of secretary of legation, as has been rumoured, Mr. Foster not having vacated that place, and it being his purpose to return to the United States about October next.

POLITICKS FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS.

IT appears by the answer to the arithmetical question proposed in this number, and inserted in a late paper, that the interest of two millions of dollars for one year, at the rate of six per cent per annum, is one hundred and twenty thousand dollars. It also appears that by an act of the Congress of the United States, passed on the 13th February, 1806, a sum of two millions of dollars was appropriated toward defraying any extraordinary expences which might be incurred in the intercourse between the United States and foreign nations, to be paid out of any money in the treasury, not otherwise appropriated, and to be applied under the direction of the President of the United States, who shall, says the act, cause an account thereof to be laid before Congress as soon as may be. It is well known that these two millions, very soon after they were thus appropriated, were drawn from the treasury; and I believe that two years at least have elapsed since that time. The interest of two millions for two years is just two hundred and forty thousand dollars; or as much as would buy in this western country two hundred comfortable farms. And has the President ever laid any account of the application of these two millions (as required by law) before Congress? If the people and their representatives will permit the executive to hold millions of the public money in his hands, while he keeps involved in alarming mystery and secrecy the most important concerns of the nation, they may toll the knell of liberty and republicanism.

It cannot be denied that acts of generosity are laudable and honorable, and that their value must appreciate in proportion to the expence and injury sustained by the person performing them. Now,—as the Portuguese royal family, the nobility, and many others, have removed to Brazil, in South America, with eight or nine ships of the line, other ships of war, and merchant vessels; with millions of treasure, and the most ample means of improving the country, and establishing a powerful nation, and extending their commerce, is it not most generous in our rulers (give the devil his due) to embargo our vessels and restrain our trade, until they are upon an equal footing with us, have seized the channels of commerce, and are ready to furnish those supplies, which we have exported with so much success and advantage, and which their luxuriant and salubrious country will enable them to do?

By the arrival of the Robert Burns at New-York, from Liverpool, we have completed our files of London papers to the 7th of February. There appears to be much debating in parliament and writing in the newspapers about the relations between that country and this.—— Throughout the whole, however, there is manifested a most provoking indifference in regard to our embargo—I say provoking, because the professed object of subjecting this country to all the hardships of that oppressive measure was to coerce the belligerent powers, and particularly Great-Britain, into a compliance with our demands. So little is it regarded, however, in England, that even the opposition prints have not thought it worth while to make it a topic of discussion, as having been occasioned by the measures of the ministry.—The fact is that it oppresses ourselves much more severely than any body else.

Mr. Williams, a passenger in the Gold Hunter, who arrived at New-York from St. Andero, informs, that the embargo in France and the ports of her allies was taken off on the 21st of January. The Emperor Napoleon was momently expected at Bordeaux—markets in France and Spain for colonial produce was very high. The Gold Hunter was bound to Bordeaux, but being warned off by a British frigate off the Cordovan (not having her register endorsed) she proceeded to St. Andero, where she landed her cargo.

Extract of a letter received by a gentleman in this city from Sir John Thomas Duckworth, dated off the Chesapeake, March 11.—"I have prepared this letter for you, should I be able to get communication with the shore, to apprize our minister and consuls of what has brought me to this part of the world, to prevent the possibility of any misconstruction; as I dread, for the interest of both countries, and the happiness of the civilized part of the globe, a war between us, and indeed I place much dependence on the good sense of the people of America that such an evil cannot happen, and most devoutly do I exclaim "Heaven forbid."

A New-Providence paper of March 2, says, "Information that can be depended upon, states, that there are 12 stout privateers cruizing from the ports of St. Domingo, two of them belong to General Ferrand, carrying heavy metal, and upwards of one hundred and twenty men each; it is hardly possible for a vessel to escape capture on the south side of Hispaniola."

The Irish papers mention, that the linen trade of Ireland is likely to suffer much from the suspension of their accustomed supplies of flaxseed. The importation of this article into that country on an average of twelve years, was about 42,000 hogsheads. A hogshead produces on an average 84 stone of rough flax, fit for the hatchel, which, at a moderate price, would sell for about 40 guineas. A large portion of the imported seed came from Holland and the Baltic, the rest from America, and as those sources are for the present closed, there will be a general scarcity during the ensuing season.

Extracts from Washington, March 22.

On Saturday morning, an express arrived in this city, said to be bearer of dispatches to the President of the United States. Several members informed me, that those dispatches are from our ministers at London, and they are expected to be communicated to-morrow.

Mr. Rowan, in his objection to an immediate third reading of the Army Bill, to day, said, he wished to have it put off for a few days, as "the house had to expect some early communications from the Executive, relative to our foreign relations."

A letter from a gentleman at Washington, dated the 20th March, says, "The negociation with Mr. Rose, is entirely ended. He departs on Wednesday, as Mr. Foster, who goes with him, just informed me. From a quarter I can rely on (I have it from a member of the administration) this important thing has gone off in this way; Mr. Rose declared his ability and inclination to make ample satisfaction for the outrage on the Chesapeake—but before he could advance further, he required that the President's proclamation should be withdrawn after satisfaction; but would not agree to withdraw it before—and so the business ended."—North Amer.

"March 21.—The only object of Mr. Rose's embassy, was, as we are told, reparation for the attack on the Chesapeake; but as he was positively ordered to demand as a preliminary, the revocation of the Proclamation, not a step has been taken in the negociation, not an intimation has been given of the nature or extent of the atonement. This government when about entering into the negociation with the best imaginable disposition to accept any reasonable terms as satisfactory, was, it seems, abruptly stopped at the threshold, and told that an apology must first be made for an aggression to which his Britannic majesty's honor cannot submit—namely the president's proclamation.

But it is said, and among the best informed believed, that our government will not find it necessary to resort to war."

To satisfy the curiosity of those, who may wish to know the manner in which Col. Pickering's letter was received by the governor of Massachusetts, we publish the following from under his own hand and seal. In publishing this, we shall only indulge in a single remark. If it he true, as the governor states, that on reading the first page of the letter, he closed the manuscript, and wrote his puerile and peevish answer to Col. Pickering, he exhibited a petulence of disposition, a deficiency of candor, a want of common decorum, and a destitution of dignity of character, extremely derogatory to the high and distinguished office he fills. If there is a decent man in that state, who is a friend and admirer of the governor, his face must be crimsoned with the blush of mortification and chagrin.

OFFICIAL.

BOSTON, March 3.

SIR,

I yesterday received your letter, consisting of six sheets, dated the 7th ultimo. My pressing calls in public concerns would not allow me to attempt to read it until late last evening.—Before I had gone through the first page, I was surprised at your novel and extraordinary claim upon me, as governor of the commonwealth, expressed in these words—"I now address it (meaning your letter) to you, Sir, as the proper organ of communication." Had this been a request to have communicated your letter to the legislature of the commonwealth, as a favor to you, I should have continued to read until from its contents I became satisfied, whether I ought, or ought not to grant it; but on finding it to be a new and unexpected claim upon my official duty, I folded the letter instantly, in order to reflect upon (its) principles; I have not unfolded it since, and now return it to you by the mail.

You will recollect that the Senate and House of Representatives of this commonwealth, are visible, organic bodies; that the former has a president, and the latter a speaker; that both have clerks. You will also recollect that there is a secretary chosen by the two houses; that whatever is proper to be communicated to them, by you, may be communicated through one, or the other of these; but that the governor of the commonwealth is obliged, ex officio, to communicate as governor, to the legislature, whatever a member of congress shall please to address to him for that purpose, cannot be submitted to by me until I find it to be made my duty by the constitution of the commonwealth. You seem to found your claim in your being a senator of this state:—I can discern no distinction in this respect, between members of the senate, and members of the house; all are representatives of the state, and all must have equal claims.

I am, Sir, your very humble servant,

JAMES SULLIVAN.

Hon. Timothy Pickering, Esq. A Senator from Massachusetts in the Congress of the U. S.

FOREIGN.

By the arrival at New-York of the Frances, capt. Taylor, from Greenock, English dates have been received down to the 19th Feb.—Not having room for the details of intelligence brought by this arrival, we offer the following

SUMMARY.

A large Russian fleet was fitting out at Cronstadt—Our embargo was considered in England, as a measure dictated by Bonaparte—A fleet of transports, to carry 6000 troops, and accompanied by five sail of the line, was fitting out at Portsmouth, under orders for North America, on some secret expedition.—An American schooner, from Bordeaux to New-York, has been sent into Falmouth, on board of which were found important dispatches from the French government, to Guadaloupe and Martinique.—Great sufferings were experienced at Oporto, from the scarcity of provisions, and being obliged to maintain 15,000 Spanish troops.—It was reported that Russia declared war against Sweden, and that a levy en masse, had been made in the latter—The Danish ships, brought from Copenhagen, were preparing for sea, with great dispatch. All papers relative to the negociation with Russia, were laid before parliament—Much damage has been done at Antwerp, by a tide which rose 18 inches higher than was ever before known. The opposition papers censure the ministry for the escape of the Rochfort squadron, and attribute it to the want of provisions and food in the blockading squadron; the ministerial papers say they escaped in a fog. On the 4th of February, Mr. Ponsonby in the house of commons, made a motion for information on the affair of Copenhagen, which was negatived, 253 to 108. Another expedition to the Baltic was preparing, the object of which was unknown. The British government had given orders for the publication of a proclamation which was to be sent off to sir S. Smith for distribution through Portugal, offering to the inhabitants who are disposed to leave the country, an unlimited number of transports to carry them to the Brazils. The Russian fleet in the Tagus was expected soon to surrender. It was reported that 140,000 French troops were assembled on the frontiers of Spain, designed for an attack on Gibralter. It was said a duel was fought between the Russian count Meerveldt, and the French general Savory, in which the latter was killed the first fire. The banks of England have agreed to lend government 3,000,000 sterling, and to give them 500,000 l. in consiration of unclaimed dividends.

THE KING'S SPEECH.

Parliament met on the 21st of January, and on the same day the king's speech was made by commission. It contains a comprehensive history of the political transactions of Europe, during the recess of parliament, and declares the necessity of farther prosecuting the war, as an honorable peace could not be obtained. The following notice of American affairs we copy from the speech.

"It remains for us according to his majesty's command, to state to you that the treaty of commerce and amity between his majesty and the United States of America, which was concluded and signed by commissioneers duly authorized for that purpose, on the 31st of Dec. 1806, has not taken effect, in consequence of the refusal of the president of the United States to ratify that instrument.

"For an unauthorized act of force committed against an American ship of war, his majesty did not hesitate to offer immediate and spontaneous reparation. But an attempt has been made by the American government to connect with the question which has arisen out of this act, pretensions inconsistent with the maritime rights of Great Britain: such pretensions his majesty is determined never to admit. His majesty, nevertheless hopes that the American government will be actuated by the same desire to preserve the relations of peace and friendship between the two countries, which has ever influenced his majesty's conduct, and that any difficulties in the dicussions now pending, may be effectually removed.

"His majesty has commanded me to state to you, that in consequence of the decree by which France declared the whole of his majesty's dominions to be in a state of blockade, and subjected to seisure and confiscation, the produce and manufactures of his kingdom, his majesty resorted, in the first instance, to a measure of mitigated retaliation, and that this measure having proved ineffectual for its object, his majesty has since found it necessary to adopt others of greater vigour, which, he commands us to state to you, will require the aid of parliament to give them complete and effectual operation.

"His majesty has directed copies of the orders which he has issued with the advice of his privy council upon this subject to be laid before you, and he commands us to recommend them to your early attention."

AN EASTERN ANECDOTE.

Dabschelim, king of the Indies, possessed a library so large, that it required an hundred Bramins to revise and keep it in order, and a thousand Dromedaries to carry the books. As he had no intention to read all it contained, he commanded his Bramins to make extracts from it, for his use, of whatever they judged most valuable in any branch of literature.—These Doctors immediately undertook to furnish an abridgement, and, after twenty years labour, composed from their several collections a small Encyclopedia, consisting of twelve thousand volumes, which thirty camels could scarcely carry. They had the honor to present this to the king; but were astonished to hear him say, that he would not read a work that was a load for thirty camels. They then reduced their extracts so that they might be carried by fifteen, afterwards by ten, then by four, and then by two dromedaries. At last no more were left than were sufficient to load a mule of ordinary size. Unfortunately, Dabschelim had grown old while his library was abridged, and did not expect to live long enough to read to the end—this master piece of learning. The sage Pilpay, his Visir, therefore thus addressed him:—Tho' I have but an imperfect knowledge of the library of your sublime majesty, yet can I make a kind of analysis of what it contains; very short, but extremely useful—you may read it in a minute; yet will it afford you sufficient matter for meditation during your whole life." At the same, time, the Viser took the leaf of a palm-tree, and wrote on it with a pencil of gold, the four following maxims:

"In the greater part of sciences, there is only this single word, perhaps;—in all history but three phrases—they were born, they were wretched, and they died!"

"Take pleasure in nothing which is not commendable, and do every thing you take pleasure in. Think nothing but what is true, and utter not all you think."

"Oh, ye kings, oh, ye nations! listen to a truth you never can hear too often, and of which sophists pretend to doubt—there is no happiness without virtue, and no virtue without the fear of God!"

THE PLEASURES OF....LACK OF MEMORY.

I'VE seen a man, I knew him well,
His age it was I think fourscore;
Not age alone, but care and woe,
Had bent his body like a bow,
And hurt his understanding more.

Though poverty had been his lot,
Yet happier moments once did reign,
When from the world he could retire,
And seated by the cottage fire,
Enjoy the smiles of lovely Jane.

In truth she was a tender wife,
The sun, that o'er the neighb'ring down
Shone at full morn, beheld her gay,
And at his set, his farewell ray,
Gleam'd on a face without a frown.

This wife, the partner of his days,
(Partner alike in joy and care)
For near a twelvemonth had been dead,
The lowly church-yard is her bed;
She lies—the white stone tells you were.

Yet to this hour he knows it not,
So frail his memory since has been;
For in the snow or in the rain,
He'll stand and call, and call for Jane,
Till some kind hand will lead him in.

Or, if the sun shines warm and bright,
Then you may see him half a day
Gath'ring his brush-wood by the stile,
And looking round, and wond'ring while,
Jane does not carry them away.

When by his evening fire he sits,
Where Jenny once sat him beside,
He'll look upon the empty chair,
And wonder why she is not there,
And her too slow approach will chide.

Thus does his morbid mind derive
A pleasure from his very pain:
Though Jane is ever absent, still
She's "by the well," or "down the hill,"
And "quickly will return again."

By yesterday's Mail.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.

It appears that the Rochefort squadron has completely eluded the vigilance of the British look-out fleets. It was spoken off the Isle of Tormentara. This Isle is situate in the Mediterranean a few leagues to the southward of Ivica, and is deserted on account of the number of serpents that infest it.

Latest from Europe.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

"NEW-YORK, March 27.

"Arrived, ship Oliver Elsworth, Sketchley, 28 days from Liverpool. She brings papers to the 22d ult. There is nothing of interest in them. There is a treaty offensive and defensive between Great Britain and Sweden; and all Swedish subjects from 16 to 60, are to be called into immediate service, to try their fortunes with England.

"Russia has declared war against Sweden.

"The most pacific spirit still prevails in the British parliament towards America.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

"Washington, March 25.

The doors of the house were opened for a short time this morning, for the purpose of receiving three messages from the president of the United States. The first of them relates to the public buildings in this city; the second encloses a statement of the militia of the United States, according to the latest returns, amounting in all (exclusive of Delaware, from which no return has been received) to 636,386 men; the third relates to the difficulty of procuring scites for fortifications, the owners being unable or unwilling to aberate them."

From the N. York Gazette of yesterday.

Yesterday arrived here, the fast sailing ship Eliza, capt. Skiddy, from Bordeaux, and 29 days from the Cordovan. She left Bordeaux on the 15th ult. and brings Paris papers to the 10th—as usual they contain nothing new.—The Paris Argus copies the account of the American Embargo, from London papers, but without a single comment!

Twenty American gentlemen, have left France in consequence of an apprehension of their beieg seized by order of the French government; as, the opinion was, that there would be an immediate war with the United States and France.

All the American vessels in France, that had been boarded by British cruizers, were under seizure; and the opinion was that the property would remain in the custody of the government till it was known whether we adjusted our differences with England, in which case it would be immediately condemned.--One American vessel, on her passage from Amsterdam, had been sent into France, though in ballast, and seized.

Mr. Mansfield, one of the passengers in the Eliza, is the bearer of dispatches from Mr. Armstrong, our minister at Paris.

Application was made through the minister of marine to the Emperor, respecting the construction which was to be put on the Imperial decree of the 17th Dec. which rendered all vessels liable to condemnation that had on their passage, been visited by British cruizers, and certain questions proposed. The answer to which was given in a letter from the minister of marine, Dacres, to the applicants, and was to this effect.—

"That the decree of his majesty was liable to no construction different from its letter; that no one had a right to put any other construction thereon; that the decree was plain and simple; and must be severely, strictly, and literally executed upon all objects which it embraced—that vessels subject thereto would be brought before the competent tribunals as soon as possible; and that, the crews of such vessels as came under this decree would be permitted to live on board their respective ships at the expence of the ship and cargo, until they were finally condemned, when they (the crew) would be delivered up to their respective Consuls.

Letters to some of the applicants in Bordeaux from the minister of marine, gave the emperor's answer in terms as abovementioned—Copies of such letters might have been had, but were not thought of at the time the Eliza sailed.

BOARDING SCHOOL.

ON the first of April E. CARR intends to remove from his present situation to that large and commodious house in Second Street, nearly opposite the Bank, where, in addition to his present School, he will accommodate a few young gentlemen, from the country, with boarding, at a reasonable expence, who may be taught any branch of scholastic education necessary to initiate them into a commercial life, or any of the learned professions; as also the polite accomplishments of dancing and good manners.

For all those branches, suitable assistants or teachers will be procured, or recommended to the attention of parents or guardians by the subscriber, who has, for many years, been principal preceptor in a similar academy in London.

Country gentlemen, favouring this undertaking, may be assured, that every attention will be paid to the morals and manners of such young gentlemen as may be placed under his care.

Testimonials of his past assiduity, for the last four years, may be had from the first characters in Pittsburgh, to whom, if required, he will give reference.

EDWARD CARR.
